Join us for a powerful, transformational workshop that uses systemic/ family constellation work to explore how you can best create joy, abundance and fulfillment in 2012.

- Explore what life choices and ways of being in the New Year will open you to the deeply fulfilling experience of life that you know is possible.
- Uncover and gain valuable insights on the hidden entanglements and undercurrents that are at the root of physical ailment, dysfunctional emotional dynamics and pernicious belief systems.
- Embrace the fullness of life and the gifts that have been passed down so that you are free to step forward more fully in your own life, rather than being stuck in past pain and trauma.
- Experience profound healing in family/ ancestral dynamics that in turn influence our relationships with romantic partners, friends and co-workers.
- Become more at home and at peace in your body and life by aligning yourself with your soul path and releasing that which no longer serves you.

Systemic Constellation work is a powerful healing modality that allows us to gain deep healing and insight around our core issues and life path. In a constellation we step into a living matrix wherein the relationships we've formed with ourselves, our ancestry, our current family and friends, and our future are animated, offering a valuable reflection of our souls and our lives. During the class we will explore some creative applications of systemic constellations along with more traditional forms to maximize your healing experience. You will leave the workshop with valuable self-help tools and ways of applying constellations to benefit your healing process. This potent, multi-faceted work will provide you with a unique opportunity to uncover what truly serves you in your life!
